THEY DIDN'T DECIDE

Eenrico Supervisors Reached No Conclusion as to a New Court-House.

INVITED

Mr. Ruehrmund's Drawing Met with Favor, and He Will Probably Be the Architect-Star Chamber Session Illegal-To Meet Monday.

Opposition to the erection of a new court-house building for Henrico county has not yet assumed any definite shape. but the regular monthly meeting o the Board of Supervisors will be held Monday, and it is presumed that the gentlemen who are opposed to the new building scheme will then appear and sub mit their protests.

The session of the board last Monday was an irregular one, in that it was a star-chamber meeting, and such a session being in violation of section 832 of the Code, they could not have legally determined to erect a new building. This section of the Code provides that the persons conducting themselves in an orderly manner may attend the meetings." THE DOORS LOCKED.

Last Monday the door of the boardroom was locked during the session of the board, and a strict inhibition of secrecy was placed upon the select few who were admitted within the room. As a matter of fact, the meeting Monday was nothing more than a conference of the supervisors, to examine plans and prepare for taking up at the regular meeting next Monday the question of building a new court-house.

It was learned yesterday from a most reliable source that the board did not reach any definite conclusion. It having been ascertained that to repair the old court-house building would cost more than the board would be justified in expending without securing additional ac-commodations, a proposition was made a build a new one, not to exceed in cost $15,000. This was not agreed to, and the amount was raised to $20,000.

ONLY TO INVITE PLANS.

The board, however, determined that t would be better to invite plans for new building to cost not more than $20,000, and thereby to ascertain if it were practicable to rebuild entirely. Sun-dry plans were submitted, five architects altogether bidding for the work, and after all had been examined it was thought that the general plan effered by thought that the general plan offered by Mr. Carl Reuhrmund possessed mere ad-vantages than any of the others, and it was decided to refer his plans back to him, with certain changes suggested there in, and to ascertain if the building he

In, and to ascertain if the building he proposed could be constructed at a cost not to exceed $18,000.

The board then adjourned, and thus the matter stands. Mr. Ruehrmund will Feply to the query in the affirmative Monday, and then it is probable that the board will positively determine to build and formally adopt his plan.

MISS GIBSON'S JUDGMENT PAID.

End of the Slander Suit-What the Costs Amounted To.

The Gibson-Todd slander-suit, which created a profound sensation some months ago, has been settled by the payment of the damages assessed by the Law and Equity Court against Mr. and Mr. John Garland Pollard, of counsel for Mr. and Mrs. Todd, yesterday gave to Mr. R. L. Montague, of counsel for Miss Louise H. Gibson, his check for $3,260.96, in full settlement of the claim of Miss Gibson. Of this amount, $2,600 was contributed by Mr. Todd, and the remainder by Mey.

by Mr. Todd, and the remainder by Kev. Dr. William E. Hatcher, who was practically the defendant in the case. From the institution of the suit Dr. Hatcher has maintained that he would pay whatever damage might be assessed against Mr. Todd, as he considered it his duty to do so, in view of the fact that Mrs. Todd went to Miller & Rhoads's store, where the alleged slanderous remark was made, at the request of Mrs. Hatcher. When, however, the verdict for $3,299 was rendered, and it became apparent that Dr. Hatcher would have to sacrifice his home to pay it, Mr. Todd magnamiously came to his rescue, and volunteered to pay $2,000 of the amount.

This left $1,582.59 for Dr. Hatcher to pay $2,000 of the amount.

home to pay it, Mr. Todd magnamiously came to his rescue, and volunteered to pay $2,000 of the amount.

This left $1,582.59 for Dr. Hatcher to pay, and, failing in his efforts to sell his house, no negotiated a loan at one of the banks, and, with the $2,000 donated by Mr. Todd thread over the amount. Mr. Todd, turned over the ssary to pay the claim to Mr. Pol-It has never been generally known what the court costs amounted to, but they were very much less than many supposed. The costs for the plaintiff were $23.50, and for the defendant $6.63. All of this was assessed against the defendant together with 6 per cent. Interest, amounting to $32, for the two months during which the defendant failed to pay the judgment. The stenographer's fee of $5 was also assessed against the defendant, and Dr. Hatcher paid Mr. Him. Carter, who was associated with Mr. Pollard in the defence, $200, Mr. Pollard declined to accept any fee.

ATTEMPT TO CUT A PREACHER. This Gets Pleasant Sully Into Trouble-Other Cases.

Pleasant Sully (colored) was before the Police Court yesterday, charged with attempting to cut Albert Trilby (colored) with a razor. Pleasant got himself into trouble by wishing to associate too much with divines. He was one of Rev. Trilby's sub-deacons, and an ardent admirer of the pastor. His attentions grew objectionable to the Jackson-Ward divine, and when he called at the pastor's house several days ago he was told that he was a nuisance. He went away, but Thursday returned with a razor and pistol, and commenced warlike proceedings. He was put out by Albert, a son of Rev. Trilby's, but attempted to cut the former before he was ejected. Justice Crutchfield, after hearing the case, ordered a commission of lunacy to examine the too-ardent sub-deacon.

Sylvia Crawford, a colored youth, was also charged with being a lunatic. A commission of lunacy was ordered to inquire into his mental condition.

Willie Page (colored) had to pay $10 and costs for beating his wife.

Sidney Pocklington was sent to juif for six months for using insulting language to ladies on the street.

BELMONT-VANDERBILT.

A Marriage Arranged Between Mr. Oliver H. P. and Mrs. Alva. (New York Herald.)

A marriage has been arranged between Mrs. Alva Vanderbilt and Mr. Oliver H. P. Belmont. This announcement was quietly circu-

AESTHETIC TASTES.

Since it is a natural part of the programme of the American millionaire to suild for himself great houses, to acquirance furniture, pictures, britea-brac, horses, and carriages, Mrs. Vanderbilt devoted ime and taient to the acquirement of these accessories to wealth.

It was under her personal supervision that the houses in New York and Newport were built and furnished. The late Richard M. Hunt paid Mrs. Alva Vanderbilt the great compilment of saying that in all his career as an architect he had never met a woman with a more thorough and consistent taste and know ledge of art. No one who has had the pleasure of studying the interiors of the nouses built and furnished under Mrs Vanderbilt's supervision can doubt the accuracy of such an opinion.

Once housed in a manner consistent with her wealth, Mrs. Vanderbilt looked about for the most delightful means of entertaining her friends, both old and new, but the old always considered first.

Then followed her celebrated fancy ball, than which nothing more splendidly conceived and carried out had ever been given or attempted in New York.

When Marble House, in Newport, was first suggested, Mrs. Vanderbilt went abroad to study and plan for its erection, and to collect furniture, hangings, and objets d'art to harmonize with her design for a complete Louis XIV. chateau.

It was her mother wit that obtained concessions of designs and models from

On the contrary, it was a love-match, pure and simple, fostered, and encouraged by simple means, and it there was money on the one side, and high rank on the other, they only made the mutual admiration socially the more agreeable to the mother.

The story of the wedding is too recent to need mention. Every detail of, per-

The loss of the only daughter was compensated in a measure by the devotion to the mother of her two boys, William K., Jr., and Harold—the eider a big, sturdy, schoolboy, now thinking of college; the younger Harold, a dear, little chap too big for a nurse, but not yet big enough for a tutor.

of that famous politician, financier, and man of the world, the late August Belmont. He is named for his great-uncle. Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, the hero of Lake Erie.

Oliver H. P. Belmont, like his brothers Perry and August, is imbued with all the strong traits of character or the Belmonts and Perrys—determination, aggressiveness, love of adventure, patriotism, a keen sense of right and wrong, whether political or social, and a happy faculty of expressing a comprehensive opinion.

He adopted the sea as a profession, was educated at Annapolis, and served long enough to discover that he might be an old man before obtaining command of a ship.

His love of adventure caused him to resign. Then followed his marriage to Miss Sarah Whiting. Subsequently, a long series of travel and adventure kept Mr. lielmont on the go until there are few portions of the habitable grobe which he has not visited and exploited.

Mr. Belmont, like all other members of his family, has developed strong and decided tastes. Perry acquired fame in politics, and became a dilettante in literature and art. August took to banking, and devoted his leisure time to a great racing-stud, while Oliver, when not on a jour-of carriage-horses in the world.

Moreover, many curious and rare specimens of wild animals have from time to time been brought home by him from foreign parts, until his menagerie at Newport has become almost as famous as Relecourt, the superb model stable with bachelor apartments as has built there, and in which he gave a notable housewarming and ball last summer.

In the prime of life, w..., his own great wealth and opportunity at command, and the stimulus now to be added by a union with a clever and ambitious woman, there seems to be no goal beyond the reach of this charming young Fortunatus.

The city of Manchester claims that the Richmond Railway and Electric Company owes the corporation about $2,200 for taxes, due for the past two years. seems that when the franchise was granted the company in 1885 they were exempted from the payment of taxes for five years. Mr. Andrew Pizzini, when seen by a Dispatch man in regard to the matter, said that his company had been exempted from the payment of taxes for five years after the construction of the road had been commenced; and that, as work upon the line was not begun until 1891, they are exempt from taxation until this year. Mr. Pizzini claims there fore that his company does not yet owe any taxes. About a year ago the company succeeded in getting an injunction cting the 1894 tax, while a month ago second one was obtained, which en-ined the Treasurer from collecting the

The friends of Mr. John Rennie, who so mysteriously disappeared from his home, at Granite, early New-Year's morning, are still searching for him, but as yet without success. Yesterday the river near the Belt-Line bridge was dragged, in the hopes of discovering his body, should he have jumped off that structure, as has been feared by some. The bridge is only a short distance from his home. There were no quarry-holes or anything of the kind that he could have fallen into in the immediate neighborhood of his residence, as in front of his yard is an open field, and the ground on all sides of his house is cleared. There were eleven friends at Mr. Rennie's house when he so suddenly left them, going out, as has been stated, without his hat and coat. They were all merry-making and celebrating the New Year, it being then 2 o'clock in the morning. No one present was in the least intoxicated. 1855 tax. NOT YET FOUND.
